

Middaydream

i've got a brand new record player i play my music all day long a beautiful shiny silver needle it's spinning around my favorite song i've got a date with the neighbor's daughter she's as pretty as can be i'm taking her out to see a movie i hope she wants to marry me i've got a big old bed to lie in and a fluffy pillow to rest my head i was going to take my dog out walking but maybe i'll take a nap instead i've got a big old bottle of bourbon staring me down from that dusty shelf it looks so good when the sun shines through it i'm afraid i just can't help myself i'm taking a walk down to the river to splash my feet in the cold cold stream stare at sky and smile and shiver nothing can spoil my mid-daydream i've got a head full of crazy ideas they're spilling out all over the place i'm moppin' them up with a tape recorder and beaming them into outer space i've got a crisp two dollar bill still a fifty cent piece and a susan b. i'm saving up all my wheatback pennies they're worth a lot less than they're worth to me i've got a lazy disposition but people keep running around all day they scurry and worry in such a hurry i'm hoping i'll never be that way a simple man with simple pleasures who still prefers old fashioned ways a modern man with modern treasures who wants to get back to the good old days
